Fay & Humphrey's Muse.

Though not yet the smoke of battle
Clears along our Southern sky;
Though the cannon thunders rattle,
And the lightnings flash on high!
And though still our dauntless legions
March to conquer or to die:

Yet for those who stay behind them,
(Ready when their turns shall come,
To oppose, where'er they find them,
All the foe's of Freedom's home;)
Every common need of mortals
Must as ever be supplied—
CLOTHING must be had to shelter
From chill blasts or hot noontide.

Care to please you unabating,
With their olden sign unfurled,
Fay & Humphrey still are waiting,
To supply a cottless world.
Men and boys, whate'er your nation,
Size, complexion, taste, may be,
Come, from every rank and station,
Just YOUR STYLE you quick shall see!
Suits, for Spring and Summer wearing,
Ready-Made, shall please your eye—
You that were just now despairing,
Come to the "PEOPLE'S EXCHANGE" and buy.

Or if still you've not assented,
CUSTOM CLOTHS await your choice,
Every style is represented—
Look! and let your hearts rejoice.
You are pleased? This way—allow me—
Walk up stairs, and in a trice,
They will measure you for what shall
Make you look so very nice,
That your very wife won't know you
Till you've spoken to her twice.

Pause a moment in departing—
Downward glance with questioning air—
Pard'on! but that boot is starting—
Just select another pair.
Too varied forms to mention,
Ranged along the groaning shelves;
BOOTS and SHOES now claim attention—
Let them answer for themselves.
Ladies, by sad visions haunted,
Of a bootless search for boots,
Here, at last, may stand enchanted:
We've some style, at least, that suits
Everybody, maid or matron,
Howsoe'er her choice may fall
Upon shoe, or graceful slipper,
Congress boot, or balmoral.

HATS and CAPS of faultless fashion,
You shall see before you go—
Try that Burnside. That's becoming!
Or this, named for "Fighting Joe,"
"Fighting Joe" who leads our armies,
And will lead them through, you know.

Shirts, and Hose, and Ties, and Collars,
Gloves, from buckskin to white kid;
Rubber Goods for stormy weather,

Satchels, Cutlery, Umbrellas:

Liability of Aliens to Military Service.

CIRCULAR FROM THE BRITISH CONSULATE AT ST. LOUIS.

We are indebted to J. Edward Wilkins, the British Consul at St. Louis, who is now visiting this State upon official business, for the annexed copy of a circular issued by him for the information of all who claim the protection of the British government from the coming draft.

So far as may be at the present time, the circular explicitly defines what classes of persons are entitled to exemption on the ground of alienage and furnishes specific instructions as to the course to be pursued to avail themselves of the protection they may desire. We understand that the Provost Marshal for this State and other officers concerned in executing the conscription law will be governed as to aliens by this circular.—News.

BRITISH CONSULATE,
St. Louis, June 5th, 1863.

Sir:—With reference to your enquiry as to the liability of British subjects to compulsory military service in the United States, I beg to furnish you with the following information.

1st. No claim is made by the United States government on any foreigner who has not declared his intentions to become a citizen of the United States, with the exceptions hereinafter mentioned.

2d. All residents of each congressional district must comply with regulations prescribing the mode and time of enrollment there existing. After they have done this, those who wish to claim exemption on the ground of their alienage should lose no time in furnishing such evidence of their claim to exemption as may be required by the United States authorities.

During the recent draft for the militia, numerous cases have occurred where foreigners have been subjected to much embarrassment, and have given much unnecessary trouble to the United States authorities by not claiming their exemption at the proper time and in proper manner.

3d. Those British subjects who have exercised the right of franchise in any of the states of the United who are desirous of establishing their claim of exemption, can, if occasion arises, resort to the American law courts for the purpose of establishing such claims. Though still British subjects, it is possible that this voluntary act of theirs may under certain circumstances render them liable to military duty.

4th. The children of those British subjects who have simply declared on oath their intention at some future time to become citizens of the United States are not claimed by the United States government as liable to military duty.

5th. The position of the children of British subjects who have not become naturalized American citizens, is as follows:

1. Those born in this country are liable to military duty.

2. Those born in British dominions whose parents have not become naturalized and who themselves have not done any act to alter their positions, are exempt.

6th. The children of British subejets born in British dominions and whose parents have become naturalized are embraced in three classes:

1. Those not in the United States at the completion of the naturalization of their parents do not appear to be claimed by the United States government.

2. Those in the United States at that period are to be considered American citizens until they attain the age of twenty-one.

3. As regards such who have attained the age of twenty-one, I must request an exact statement of the circumstances of each case, should my advice be required.

In case where consular certificates are admitted as evidence, such will be granted by me on compliance with the instructions herein enclosed.

It must be recollected however, that in any instance where such have been granted under mistake of facts or otherwise and the holder is clearly liable to military duty the possession of such consular certificate will not exempt him.

Moreover it is desirable that British subjects before seeking application to their consulate should exhaust all measures afforded them by the United States authorities for obtaining exemptions.

A Beaufort (N. C.) correspondent of the Boston Traveler writes: "most of the negro women here, as well as the poor class of whites, are habitual 'snuff dippers.' It is rubbed upon the teeth and gums by a small stick, formed like a brush, for that purpose, and may be seen in most instances protruding from the mouth of the female addicted to this habit. Thus the complexion of the white person is no way improved by partaking of the color of the plant upon which they feed, and not unfrequently they are mistaken for mulattoes and often receive the appellation of contrabands.

The pension office at Washington has lately recorded the nineteen thousandth application of wives made widows by this war.

From the New York Evening Post.

A Great Secret Revealed.

Another of the great geographical puzzles is solved. The source of the sacred Nile, unknown, but inquired after for thousands of years, and an object of curiosity to the intelligent from the days where Herodotus could get no satisfactory account to the present, are at last revealed by an adventurous Englishman, Captain Speke.

In a letter to Sir Roderick Murchison printed in English journals received this morning, the fortunate discoverer writes:

"I said I would do it, and I have done it. The Victoria Nyanza is the great reservoir of the sacred Bahreael Abriad (White Nile.)"

Sir Roderick Murchison adds:

"This discovery by Speke and Grant, by which the southmost limit of the basin of the Nile is determined to be four degrees south of the equator, is the most remarkable geographical feat of our age, and is indeed, an achievement of which all our countrymen may well be proud."

The lake Victoria Nyanza, which these two Englishmen have thus ascertained to be the true source or headwaters of the White Nile, was discovered by Captain Speke on the 3d of August, 1858. He set out with Capt. Burton, but left the latter at the Lake Tauganyika, and pushed on alone till he reached the Victoria. He reported this water to be extensive, the southern extremity lying about one hundred and fifty miles south of the equator, and the northern reaching at least a degree north of the equator, in longitude 3d deg. or 32 deg.

Capt. Speke returned to England convinced that this lake he had discovered was the true source of the White Nile. Capt. Burton ridiculed the supposition, and it was received with doubt by the geographical public. Persuaded that he was right, and determined to prove it, Speke returned to the African coast, organized a new expedition, and left Zenzibar with it September 35th, 1860. About a year ago, on the 11th of April, 1862, they were reported in latitude 1 deg. 30 min. south, having discovered a river which they believed to be the first certain branch of the Nile. About the end of March last, he and the small remnant of his party arrived at Kartum, having followed the stream from the lake Victoria Nyanza down. Of seventy men who formed his retinue on leaving Zenzibar, only seventeen remained with him.

It was a happy accident for Captain Speke, that the first letter he opened on emerging from the darkness of an unknown land communicated to him that he had, during his absence, received the highest reward the Royal Geographical Society can bestow, for his discovery of the lake in 1858. He writes:

"I think I may safely say that I never felt so rejoiced as I did when Petherick delivered to me your letter notifying me that the Royal Geographical Society had adjudicated to me their Founder Medal, for the discovery of the Lake Victoria Nyanza, the more so as the kind expressions in your letter reached me just as my trials were over."

In another letter, written March 30th, from Khartum, he says:

"We left Petherick, wife and doctor all well at Gondokoro. Baker, who was the first Englishman we met with, gave us asistance in boats, stores and money."

The "doctor" mentioned can scarcely be Dr. Brownell, an American, whose death was reported some months ago. But it was also reported that Mr. Petherick, had been killed, and this appears now to have been an error.

Thus, a geographical problem as interesting as that of the northwest passage, and longer than that the subject of intelligent speculations and research, is at last solved. The stubborn earth has given up another of the secrets, and there remains now no great prize for geographers and explorers to strive for. Bayard Taylor wrote, some years ago. "Since Columbus looked upon San Salvador, the earth has but one emotion of triumph left in her bestowal, and that she reserved for him who shall drink from the fountains of the White Nile."

Curious Case of Superstition.

A widow lady in Paris, aged about sixty-three, who lodged on a two pair of stairs floor in the Rue de la Ferroniere, with only a maid servant, was accustomed to spend several hours every day before the alter dedicated to St. Paul, in a neighboring church. Some villians, observing her extreme weakness, resolved, as she was known to be very rich, to share her wealth. One of them accordingly took the opportunity to conceal himself behind the carved work of the alter, and when no person but the old lady was there, in the dusk of the evening, he contrived to throw a letter right before her. She took it up, and did not perceive any one near, supposed it came by miracle. In this she was more confirmed when she saw that it was signed "Paul, the Apostle," expressing satisfaction he received by her prayers addressed to him when so many newly canonized saints engrossed the devotion of the world, and robbed the primitive saints of their wanton adoration; and to show his regard for her devotion he promised to come from heaven with the Angel Gabriel, and sup with her at eight in the evening. It seems scarcely credible that any one could be deceived by so gross a fraud; yet to what length will not superstition carry a weak mind? The infatuated lady believed the whole: and rose from her knees in transports, to prepare an entertainment for her heavenly guests.

The supper being bespoke, and the sideboard being set out to the best advantage, she thought her own plate, worth about £400, did not make so elegant appearance as might be wished; and therefore sent to her brother, a counselor in the Parliment of Paris, to borrow all his plate. The maid, however, was charged not to disclose the occasion, but only to say that she had company for supper, and would be obliged to him if he would lend his plate for the evening. The counselor, surprised at the application, well knew his sister's frugal habits of life, began to suspect that she was enamored of some fortune hunter, who might marry her, and thus deprive his family of what he expected at his sister's death. He, therefore, positively refused to send the plate, unless the girl told him what guests were expected. The girl, alarmed for her mistress's honor, declared that her pious lady had no thoughts of a husband, but St. Paul having sent her a letter from heaven, promising that he and the Angel Gabriel would sup with her, she wanted to make the entertainment as elegant as possible.

The counselor immediately suspected that some villians had imposed on her: and sending the maid with the plate, proceeded directly to the commissary of that quarter. On the magistrate going along with him to the house adjoining, they saw, just before eight o'clock, a tall man, and a young man in white, with large wings, alight from a hackney coach, and go up to his sister's apartments.

The commissary ordered twelve of the police guards to place themselves on the stairs, while he knocked at the door for admittance. The lady replied that she had company and could not speak to any one. The commissary answered that he must come in, for he was St. Peter, and had come to ask St Paul and Angel Gabriel how they came to go out of heaven without his knowledge. The divine visitors were astonished at this, not expecting any more saints to join them: but the lady, overjoyed at having so great an apostle with her, ran to the door, when the commisary, her brother, and the police guards rushed in, presented their muskets, seized her guests, and conducted them to prison.

On searching the criminals, two cords, a razor, and a pistol, were found in St. Paul's pocket, and a gag in that of the Angel Gabriel. Three days after the trial came on, when they plead in their defence that one was a soldier in the French infantry, and the other a barber's apprentice—that they had no other design than to procure a good supper at the widow's expense—that it being carnival time, they had only borrowed these dresses, and the soldier having picked up the two cords, put them in his pocket—that the razor was that with which he constantly shaved himself—that the pistol was to defend themselves from any insults which their strange attire might subject them to in going home—and that the apprentice, whose master was a tooth-drawer, merely had the gag which they sometimes used in their business. The excuses, frivolous as they were, proved of some avail; as they had manifested no evil design by any overt act, they were both acquitted.

But the counselor, who foresaw what might happen through the defect of evidence, had provided another stroke for them. No sooner were they discharged from civil power than the appuritor of Archbishop of Paris immediately seized them and carried them to the ecclesiastical prison. In three days more they were tried and convicted of a most scandalous profanation by assuming the names, characters, and appearances of a holy apostle and a blessed angel, with an intent to deceive a pious and well meaning woman, and to the scandal of religion. They were accordingly publicly condemned to be whipped, burnt on the shoulder with a red hot iron, and sent to the galleys for fourteen years—a sentence which was in a few days faithfully put in execution.

The Red Sea Canal.

A private letter from Alexandria in Egypt, which has been published in N. Y. Evening Post, gives the view taken by an intelligent American, of the practicability and importance of the great enterprise, now auspiciously begun, of a ship canal across the Isthmus of Suez. We copy a passage or two relating to that subject, and also to certain antiquities lately discovered in the vicinity of Alexandria.

"I have lately returned from the works on the Suez canal. It is, as President Lincoln says, "a big job:" but it is certain to succeed, and it will bring back the trade of the world near the channel from which it was diverted by the discovery of Good Hope. A volume would be necessary to describe what I saw. All the eminent engineers living who have examined the work, are unanimous in favor of its practicability. A vast amount of work has been done.

The Company has surmounted the political and intriguing oposition of England, which hindered them for a long time: it has built scores of miles of fresh water canals to serve Nile water canals to laborers and irrigate and fertilize their lands; it has built its foundries, work-shops, store-houses, and dwellings at different stations; it has built up towns along the route; it has finished a canal half way across the Isthmus, and next year it will complete a canal large enough to transport all the coal which the steamship company have now to carry at so great an expense around the Cape of Good Hope, or by rail across Egypt to Suez. After this preliminary canal, the larger canal for ships will be finished in three or four years. The objections to the practicability of a harbor on the Mediterranean, and to the encroachment of sand on the channel, are in the judgment of engineers, pure fudge. Nor does there seem any embarrassment in regard to money. The Viceroy, who is probably the richest sovereign in the world, is its strongest supporter, and will not in my opinion, permit the enterprise to fail. The estimated cost for the entire work is $10,000,000.

They have just been laying what is an American railway between here and Ramleh, a sea side subburb of the city. excavations have disintered a large quantity of the remains of the era of the Petolomies and Comans; massive supper-structions of brick and stone, long and well preserved Roman granite blocks, like the Russ pavement, marble and granite pillars, mutilated busts and statutes, big water pipes in good order, a foot and a half in diameter etc. The extent of the old city's rubbish is vast. I can well believe Pliny who says that the circumference of Alexandria was fifteen miles, including a population of over 600,000.

About two years since an underground chapel of the second or third century was found here, hewn from solid rock. It was evidently designed for secret funeral service. It has a passage with a row of catacombs on each side. There was a well, covered with stone. At one end of the chapel, opposite the catacomb passage, the well was scooped and a stone bench cut out, evidently for the priest, behind whom was printed, Brazaniina style, a picture of the Lord's Supper. On other parts of the wall were full length portraits of the apostles and prophets, and over all the paintings were crabbed Greek inscriptions, mentioning the subjects. In one place I observed it was a passage from the evangelists. The Arab stonehewers who discovered the chapel were about breaking it for building materials, when the Russian Consul General, as the representative of the Greek Church, interfered and saved it, tho'h considerably damaged. In fact they have almost obliterated the features of the portraits. This chapel, which has been opened since the guide books were published, is not generally known by travellers. It is in the same hill on which stands Pompey's Pillar.

Hold Fast to the Constitution.

Cling Fast to the Constitution, as the shipwrecked mariner clings to the last plank, when night and the tempest close around him.—Daniel Webster.

The supremacy of the civil over the military authority—economy in the public expenses; * * diffusion of information, arrangment of all abuses at the bar of public opinion.— * * *

"Freedom of Religion, Freedom of the Press, and FREEDOM OF PERSON, under PROTECTION of the Habeas Corpus and Trial by Jury, impartially selected.—These principles form the bright constellation which has gone before us and guide our steps through an age of revolution and reformation. They should be the creed of our political faith, the text of civil instructions, the touch-stone by which to try the services of those we trust; and should we wander from them, in moments of alarm, let us hasten to retrace our steps and regain the road which alone leads to Peace, Liberty and Safety.—Thomas Jefferson.

"The fact can no longer be disguised that many of the Republican Senators desire war and disunion, under pretext of saving the Union. They wish to get rid of the Southern States, in order to have a majority in the Senate to confirm the appointments, and many of them think they can hold a permanent Republican majority in the Northern States, but not in the whole Union; for partisan reasons they are anxious to dissolve the Union, if it can be done without holding them responsible before the people."—Stephen A. Douglas, in the U. S. Senate, Dec. 25, 1860.

"I declare upon my responsibility as a Senator, that the liberties of the country are in great danger to-day from the corruptions, and from the profligacy practiced in the various departments of the Government, than they are from the enemy in the open field.—J. P. Hale, Senator from New Hampshire.

"Those to whom Power is delegated should be held to a strict accountability to their Constitutional oaths of office. The plea of necessity is no excuse for a violation of them. Recollect: 'The price of Liberty is that of eternal vigilance.' Are men traitors who follow the teachings and advice of such men. —Thomas Jefferson.

"Toward the preservation of your Government and the permanency of your present happy state, it is requisite not only that you steadily discountenance irregular opposition to his acknowledged authority, but also that you resist with care the spirit of innovation upon its principles, however specious the pretext."—George Washington.

"Neither the President nor Congress can emancipate slaves any more than they can grant bills of divorce."—Ex. Gov. Henry Dutton.

"The military should be kept in strict subordination to the civil power; the Freedom of the press, and of Religious Opinions should be inviolate; the policy of our country is Peace, and the ark of our salvation is Union.—President J. Q. Adams.

A resort to extraordinary measures under the plea of paramount military necessity is a sad mistake. The great necessity is this war for the preservation of the government, is the distinct, unqualified, and practical recognition of the fact that the Constitution is the supreme law of the land.—Louisville Journal, (Republican.)

Wisconsin and the Draft.

We have seen no reasonable estimate which puts the number of men to be drafted higher than 300,000. If a larger call is made it will be made in view of the operation of the substitute clause, and to cover exemptions and desertions from the conscription officers.

In case even 300,000 are drafted, the quota of this State could not be very large. The official returns at the office of the Adjutant General show that Wisconsin has furnished an excess of two thousand three hundred and seventy under the previous calls. It must also be taken into account that those States which furnished two years and nine months men will have to furnish enough men to make up their deficiencies. In case of two years' regiments now in the service, three of these will only count as much as two regiments of three years' men in estimating the quotas of the respective States.

The Prince and Princess of Wales attended the Haymarket theatre recently, for the first time since their marrage. The performance consisted of Tom Taylor's comody, "Still Waters Run Deep," and the amusing and apropos sketch, "Blackstone at Home." The applause and laughter, in which their Royal Highnesses heartily joined, were incessant:

"During the evening the Prince and Princess, who occupied the Queen's box, were so completely out of sight of the audience that when Miss Louise Keeley, in her song introducing burlesque characters, came to the verse—

Here's the Prince of Happy Land,
Once he ruled at the Lyceum;
And here's another Prince at hand,
But being invisible you can't see him!

the audience applied the verse to the royal visitors with such loud and continues laughter that Miss Keeley became evidently embarrassed, and the Prince of Wales soon after led his wife to the front of the boy amid prolonged cheers from all parts of the house."

A very amusing anecdote is told of Louis Napoleon, which we borrow from the Paris correspondence of the London Athenæum:

"As the Emperor was returning, the other day, from the review of the National Guards, he met a wedding party. The bride, decked out in bridal attire, gazed out of the carriage at the Emperor with natural curiosity. The Emperor rode up close to her and said, 'Madame, the bride, I greet you. You are very pretty. I wish you every happiness and plenty of children.'—The young bride, for she was only eighteen— her husband was a pork butcher!—blushed up to her eyes, but instantly replied, 'Sire, I will place my first child under your protection.'—'Very well,' replied Emperor, smiling, 'come and find me at the Tuileries next year; I shall most likely be there, and I will stand godfather to your first-born.' "

GEN. MCCLELLAN has completed his report of all his military operations from the time he was called to the position of General-in-Chief of the army until he was relieved from the command of the Army of the Potomac. It will make quite an extensive document, and will be published by permission of the General, if the government, to which it has been duly submited, does not authorize its publication. The friends of Gen. McClellan assert that it will answer, through official documents, many unpleasant things that have been alleged against him.

The last new thing in the way of dress ornament is leather. The Princess Metternich made her appearance lately in a dress of Havana colored silk, ornamented with leather trimmings, studded with steel-headed nails. The bonnet was of the same material ornamented in a like manner: and, strange to say, so was the parasol.

Commencement Week.

The annual festival of Lawrence University has again come round and brings with it its ever recurring memories and pleasant associations. Familiar faces, almost forgotten friendships, and the bright hopes of other days come back upon us in this grand reunion; and, as the open flower and mellow fruit owe much of their fragrance and delicious taste to the dead leaves of Autumns that are gone, so we take a new lease of hope and start afresh in the duties of another year. Thanks to the friends who kindly remember and meet us here.

To those who have no such memories the "bill of fare" of this annual gathering presents ample attractions. The Ladies' Exhibition, Preparatory Exhibition, and the variety of good things on commencement day are all of a promising character, and the names of President Mason, Dr. Bannister, Rev. Mr. Fowler and Bishop Simpson are among the first of our great and growing West. But let us step in and see what is to be done and perhaps make a few notes by the way, for "Hæc olim meminisse juvabit." First comes the

LADIES EXHIBITION.

We will get there early so as to get a good seat, for people always turn out to hear the ladies. But, no, we are late this time. The house has been jammed more than half an hour. However it is worth while to stand up a short time and examine the arrangement of the room. Those festoons and flowers, the eagle and ever glorious flag are more than creditable to the fair fingers that arranged them, certainly.

Music—Prayer—Music. Good.

Up steps modest Miss Stimers and gives us a hearty welcome. Not much pains taken in writing it but full of interesting thoughts and well read.

"Beauty," by Miss Oborn. Ideas good but not sufficiently connected.

Miss Bullock tells us "All is not Gold that Glitters"; and then she tells us what some of them are. But we cannot stop to particularize. Look a little to your reading.

The examples of "Woman's Heroism" related by Miss Knox are certainly illustrious, but one example elaborated to illustrate some single truth would have taken better and would be worth much more to the writer.

The 'Pleasures of Imagination' might have been more pleasing if Miss Leavens had studied them more thoroughly.

"Pompeii" was exhumed of course from old authors by Miss Cahoon, but with some skill. Original thinking is better.

"Flirting," by Miss De Lamater was introduced, we presume, from some tea party or society organization where it ought to have remained.

"Bells," by Miss Mason. Good thoughts and put in attractive form. The analogies were not so close as they should be.

Miss Bond read on "Only a Woman," hence did not get much out of her subject. A good style but moderate thoughts.

But here comes a favorite of the muses—Miss Turner, with a Poem on "Social Life." Good poetry, very well read and some capital hits.

Miss Mills has got something about "The Arts and Artists of Greece," but it is a pretty broad subject for a short essay and I am afraid she will not keep the parts together. She reads well but it is just as I expected about the unity.

"Pearls and Pebbles," by Miss Hill. Well written but too long. Do not think her criticism of Byron and Wordsworth exactly just.

Miss Judson remarks on "Remarks." It is not taking with the crowd, certainly. The fling at the close is decidedly out of place. A little more thinking will help her.

Miss Wood wrote a very good article for an Encyclopedia on "Roanoke Island," but not the best kind for a literary exhibition.

The "Model School" presented by Miss Pettibone was a creditable exhibit. Opening bad.

The essay on "Language," by Miss H. O. Knox, was well read and clearly presented her subject, but was too minute in historical detail and somewhat bookish.

Miss Aiken, the only lady graduate the present year, had a good theme and a fine conception of it, but failed to elaborate it according to her evident idea. Her Valedictory Addresses were plain and rather deficient in feeling.

As a whole the exhibition was long and tedious. Don't ask us to come and stay till half past eleven again. At any rate give us enough pure air, and a light on the lower floor that with half shut eyes we may see to get out into starlight.

Sabbath morning the different pulpits were kindly and very acceptably filled by visitors. Rev. Mr. Thomas preached in the Methodist Church, Dr. Bannister in the Congregational, and Rev. Mr. Haddock in the Baptist house. In the afternoon the was delivered by Pres't Mason. It was sound to the core. It was practical and important. We begin to feel that we have no need to send abroad for ability as long as Pres't Mason can preach such sermons to us. His subject was, "The conditions of success in the case of responsible beings," treated under two heads, "what is success," and "what its conditions?" Success is not a temporary advantage but progress towards the fulfillment of God's plans. There are two ends we must look to in calculating success—The good of society and the good of individuals. These do not always harmonize here, as for instance, a division of labor is necessary for the good of society but narrows the understanding of the individual. By new improvements we are growing out of this necessity. To a responsible being improvement of character is an essential element of success. Many a Lawyer, Physician and Clergyman will look back with intense disappointment to temporary advantages gained in unlawful strife, when character, and not ingots of gold, is made the test of judgement. Second, in order to succeed it is necessary to strive lawfully. As the text says: "And if a man also strives for masteries, yet is he not crowned, except he strive lawfully." All things are governed by law. The student, the farmer and the merchant must each understand the laws of his profession in order to succeed. It is the same in intellectual improvement. There is no more common or dangerous fallacy among young men than that in some way or other they will escape the lawful consequences of their actions. Self-denial is an important means falling in with the law of our beings for the improvement of character, and christian character is the highest standard of excellence. In closing, some good advice was given to aid or rather direct, for each one must be his own judge, in choosing a profession.

THE SERMON BEFORE THE MISSIONERY SOCIETY.

was delivered Sunday evening by Dr. Bannister before a good audience. It was a worthy production of a worthy man. Clear in analysis, rising high in eloquence, freighted with thought and bowing with humility, it must have made a healthful and abiding impression on all who heard it. The text was from Romans, II chapter, 14th verse: "For when the Gentiles, which have not the law, do by nature the things contained in the law, these, having not the law, are a law unto themselves." The speaker said that natural religion is defective in that we accept wrong principles, and misapply correct ones. It is uncertain in that by it we cannot find out God, it leaves us in doubt about the future world, and it imperfectly reveals the principles on which sin is to be treated. Natural religion and revealed religion, on comparing their ability to meet the wants of men, leave the argument wholly on the side of the Bible. Man naturally wants a God. Nature cannot present a certain one, the bible does. Man wants a mediator. The bible only gives it. Man wants peace. No peace is promised but in the bible. Man wants happiness. The bible only can supply the conditions of happiness. Since then, the bible is such a blessing as we see it to be, let it be carried to all parts of the earth. In considering our want of a mediator the speaker was perhaps too theological for some, but a little more theology will not hurt us.

THE LECTURE BY REV. MR. FOWLER, MONDAY EVENING.

A little unpleasantness was caused by the charge of a fee, both to the strangers who had been invited to attend this as well as the other commencement exercises, and also to Mr. Fowler himself, who had offered his services to the Philalathean Society before which he lectured free, although at a good deal of sacrifice to himself. It is like inviting men to a feast and then charging them, while he who is held additionally responsible for the entertainment has his inducements cut down from a crowded house to a select few and the benefit of an unpaying Society. Considering these circumstances the audience was good and highly flattering to the speaker.

The subject—"Does thinking pay?" was handled in a state unique and impressive. It would, of course, be impossible to reproduce the expression of his language or the force of his imagery without a full report of the discourse and even then it would be but imperfectly done. We will only attempt to give a few leading ideas.

Thinking pays because it is the manifestation of that part which is more immediately ourselves: with that part that lies behind the visible and changeable. There lies beneath external appearances the world of purpose, thought and power. The young man is apt to overlook this and seek for results only—something tangible, something without power. By so doing he thrusts himself forward as it were to sprout in the midst of winter and be blasted by its frosts. Success is not success unless it is the result of a purpose. Everything else is blunder.—The real follows the ideal; the thought must come first. The iron turreted monster must travel up and down Pennsylvania Avenue in ideal form in the mind of Ericsom before it can go out to sea. Purpose leads to action, and asserts and maintains the superiority of mind over matter. Ideas are the moving powers of the world. They shape governments and organizations. Therefore thinking pays.—Thinking molds character. It makes or unmakes us for time and eternity. Therefore thinking pays.—Great ideas never die. If we would do anything or be anything it must be by ideas. Therefore thinking pays.

The speaker was brilliant in language and forcible in delivery, and evidently left a marked impression on the listeners. Still it may be doubted whether he did not wind to much 'stocking' around his 'sling shot;' whether there was not too much dress with too little body of thought. There was percussion but too little weight of metal. The effect was pleasing to the ear but not abiding on the heart and in the life. One might wake up after a short nap and feel he had not been hurt much after all. In short there was not the solidity of mature thinking.

A noticeable characteristic in the speaker was his boldness of statement. To choke the breath of life out of every thought and sentence by qualifications is not very inspiring to either speaker or hearer but the extempore speaker especially is liable to the other extreme of letting an unguarded expression, if it be striking, and elicit applause, carry him into all sorts of indiscretion. This lecture was not free from this fault. For instance he spoke of the mind not only as superior to the body but of the mind as everything and the body as nothing. He spoke of searching for himself beneath his bosom and in his brain and finding neither track nor trace of himself as though he himself was something altogether undiscoverable. I know there is a good deal of talk in metaphysical circles about the me and the not me, but for all practical purposes there is a pretty close connection between them. Seize the brain and stop its action and the mind will not run much alone. Touch the heart and the candle of life will go out. It is perhaps more than questionable whether our world of thought of purpose and of power can exist at all as thought and power without an organization; and so long as we stay here we may as well acknowledge our own flesh, and call ourselves body and spirit. There is danger in underrating the importance of the body. If one may burn his midnight lamp over Horace or Butler the many may burn theirs over games and carousals. We must keep the body under but we may not despise and crush it. While we would say by all means let the mind be enlightened and enlarged to its fullest extent, we would say also, remember the Divine law stamped in every feature of man—"Sana mens in corpore sano." A sound mind in a sound body.

The speaker was a complete demonstration of one assertion he made, which is, that great ideas cannot be kept down. He had an idea about the war and administration, and it had to come up and show itself despite the occasion, despite the opposition he must have excited in some despite the desire we presume, of the entire audience, for a literary lecture, and even despite his subject. But the greatest regret after all is, not that he made his subject bear upon the present time in the wrong direction, but that by so doing he failed to make bear at all in the right direction, which is most important to us. In thinking capacity the common people of this nation have doubled within the last two years. In necessity for thought there is a growing increase. If ever "thinking paid" it will pay at this hour and in this volcanic field of thought.

Tuesday afternoon an

was held at the College Chapel. A complete success. The object was to consider the financial condition of the University. The following resolutions were read by Prest. Mason, who made a clear exposition of the situation:

Resolved, That the interests of education in Wisconsin demand the liberal support of Lawrence University.

Resolved, That we have great cause of gratitude to God for the past and good grounds of hope for the future.

Resolved, That in view of the continued liberality of its noble founder, who has again pledged $10,000 for its relief, we are called on as Ministers and members of the M. E. Church, and as citizens of Appleton, to do all in our power to pay the debts of the Institution and secure for it an adequate endowment.

After he sat down Bishop Simpson was introduced who showed clearly and with power, not only why a young man should take the regular college course, not only why the benevolent in general should help this Institution, not only why citizens should uphold it, and not only why Methodists as a denomination should support it and put it beyond all ordinary contingencies: but he also showed why he is a favorite among the people. After Bishop Simpson concluded his remarks contributions were solicited and in in a short time the handsome amount of $3,600 was pledged.

THE PREPARATORY CLASSES GAVE AN EXHIBITION ON TUESDAY EVENING.

Mr. Pettibone gave the Salutatory which was direct and in well chosen language.

Mr. Daniels on "Tree Scholarship" was stiff and repelling in manner, but his thoughts were fair and language good.

Mr. Edwards on "Order essential to success" also lacked freedom in delivery.

"Live for something" by Mr. Cooke was wanting in thought. There seemed to be a striving after effect.

"Our Civil War" by Mr. Schilling was creditable to the heart of this representative of our German population and showed a good mind. His sentences were well constructed.

Mr. Flowers evidently did not feel the importance of the subject "Now or Never." His gestures also were too frequent.

"The World Moves" and so did Mr. Tucker's sentences each in the track of its predecessor.

Mr. Little was somewhat different from his predecessor. He is earnest enough but had not his subject in shape to bring out the important points concisely.

Mr. Jones does not seem quite at home on the stage and brings a little of the fireside talk with him, but we wish him all that his subject indicates—"Success."

Mr. Hartwell is more free in discussing the "Power of Music," and writes very well.

Mr. Favell's theme, "Education," is familiar to the public, yet a little more of it in the speaker might have prevented some mistakes in composition.

"Modern Science" is too large a subject for Mr. Bidwell at present. It is only a mass of fossils without arrangement or classification.

"Youth the seed time of Life," by Mr. Young. The ground should be broken and harrowed before the seed is sown. The speaker needs something of this to give him vivacity.

"Cause and Effect." Mr. Hewitt has good delivery, and seems to take an interest in the progress of his thoughts himself which interests others.

The 'Political Medley' by Mr. Onstine comes in opportunely for we are getting tired and dull. It gives us some very fair hits.

The Poem on "Chivalry" was smoothly written but did not possess much of interest to the audience.

Mr. Himebaugh talks well about the "Press" and so let the press return the compliment. It will not do him injustice.

Mr. Smith has a commanding appearance but it is all the more necessary that he should cultivate grace in his movements and gestures. His subject "Classical studies" is good and well handled.

"The Point of Power" by Mr. Wilson. We fail to discover the point of power in the speech. It seems indefinite and muddy.

On the whole there was a good deal of ease in delivery and absence of effort for mere effect. The pieces could not be expected many of them to interest the audience considered as literary productions but they did no dishonor to the performers.

COMMENCEMENT DAY.

The weather was exceedingly favorable for the occasion. The Chapel was well filled but made comfortable and pleasant.

Mr. Cross delivered the Salutatory in a hurried, indifferent manner, but it might have rivaled Cicero in eloquence, for ought most of us could tell. Slower utterance and a good deal of the language of nature helps in such a piece very much. I wonder he has gone through College and has not learned better the use of his hands. The Latin accents, so far as I could understand the indistinct delivery were more correct than on some similar occasions.

Mr. Stowe had an extensive subject—"God in American History," and exhibited considerable reach of thought. Some of his sentences were badly constructed and might be broken up to advantage. We think also that the arrangement might have been improved, especially towards the close.

Mr. Cross came on again with a stirring English oration, subject—"Where are we Drifting?" His manner was about the same as when he talked Latin. We presume there is but one opinion as to the propriety of such a piece for such an occasion; but inasmuch as all the higher inducements, such as the advice of instructors and the wishes of friends, did not dissuade him from delivering it, a review of these now, would not convince him of his fault. But if he ever rises to influence in the world he will find that it was a mistake as well as a fault. To make a speech for sensation alone never secures permanent credit; least of all to make it on such an occasion. The world will find out our worth without our hanging out a sign. The world make up their minds as to one's ability, if he occupies a high position, from the opinions of those whom they trust, and all intelligent men condemn such a course. It is the most damaging thing in the world for one's friends to be forced to acknowledge that he is indiscreet.

Mr. Aiken spoke about the "Progress of Liberty" as though he had something to say. We must say it was a fine production and well delivered. The Valedictory Addresses were direct and manly.

The following Degrees were then conferred on the following persons:

BACHELOR OF ARTS.

W. H. Aiken. J. P. Cross,
G. E. Stowe.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE.

Miss Adeline E. Aiken.

MASTER OF ARTS.

H. W. Allen, J. A. Owen,
W. F. Yocum, A. F. Lamb,
J. W. Hammond. N. Paine,
C. J. McMullen.
Mrs. O. C. Paine, Miss L. A. Sanborn,
Miss Anna. B. Sherwood.

After the ordinary exercises, Prof. Griffith was invited to read an essay prepared for the Philalathean Society on the late Rev. Mr. Peterson a former graduate of the University. It was a fine tribute to the memory of the deceased and we hope it will be published.

The Commencement Dinner was made ready in Reeder Smith's Grove and after all had filled themselves with eatables, toasts were offered and discussed with greater warmth than wit. Several good speeches were made but they were like two or three other things we have spoken of, out of place.

The day closed up with a Levee at the house of Prest. Mason.

On the whole the exercises have been of fair interest and well attended. Long flourish Lawrence University.

APPLETON, JUNE 27.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

A Convention of the Democracy of the State of Wisconsin will be held at the Capitol in Madison, on Wednesday, August 5th, 1863,

at 12 o'clock, M., for the purpose of nominating candidates for State officers, and of transacting such other business as may properly come before the Convention. Each Senatorial and Assembly district will be entitled to two delegates.

All men in Wisconsin who are the unconditional friends of CIVIL LIBERTY and the AMERICAN CONSTITUTION, and who would preserve, protect, and defend them against all aggressions whether in peace or war, and all men determined to maintain the integrity and permanence of the American government established by the fathers of the republic, are earnestly enjoined to participate under this call in the selection of delegates and in the common effort of all patriots to give practical effect to these cherished principles of the democracy in the State of Wisconsin. CHA'S. A. ELDREDGE,
Chairman State Central Committee.

Democratic State Convention.

The call for a State Convention will be found in another column. Consequently we hope our Democratic Co. Committee will call an early convention for the election of Delegates. And let us have a full attendance—representatives from every town. We believe the Democracy are thoroughly aroused and determined that the time honored principles of the party shall be maintained. The coming campaign promises to be an active one. It is the duty of the Democracy to stand by their principles and vindicate them at the ballot box. Therefore we trust the coming State convention will place in nomination a ticket that will command the united sufferages of the party.

Volume Eleven.

To-day we commence a new Year in our newspaperial history. Our past course in regard to political matters is the only guaranty we have to offer for the future. We shall ever be found ready and willing to do battle for the Democratic doctrines of devotion to the Constitution and fealty to the laws of the country. We shall defend our country's honor whether assaulted by rebels in the South or nullificationists and Abolition fanatics at home. We shall claim to critiese the actions of the Administration; shall at all times denounce unconstitutional, arbitrary measures which tend to deprive the people of their rights.

Our local interests will be looked after with our usual care. Those who choose to may enjoy our presence and we shall endeavor to keep our journal up to the requirements of the people. We shall force the paper on no man. If it is wanted, all right; if not we shall not send it.

INCONSISTENCY.—The beautiful consistency of the devotees of that party whose great rallying cry in '56 was "Free Speech," &c., was exhibited by these same fanatical partizans during the College exercises.

When the Rev. Mr, Fowler martyred old John Brown, in his lecture, placing that cut throat in the same category with Washington and other Revolutionary heroes, when the lecturer descended to the lowest political bar room slang in his mouthings against Democrats, these fanatics applauded to the echo every single sentiment of the speaker.

Mr. Fowler is a brilliant man in our estimation, yet he lost sight of the courtesy due his paying audience by introducing his contemptible partizanship. Democrats paid to enjoy a literary treat, and were regaled with indignity. But they did not hiss the speaker as he deserved. When Mr. Cross concluded his graduating oration he was greeted with hisses by this same free speech crowd. This was a practical exemplification of the honesty of their professions. The truth is the radicalists of the Republican faith will tolerate free speech—if it accords with their notions. But if a democrat expresses his sentiments he is a disloyal copperhead. Be it so. Such copperheads are increasing rapidly. And the only hope for our country rests in that same old constitutional democratic party. We are glad that some Republicans repudiated Mr. Fowler's contemptible slang.

"WHO STOLE THE MEAL."—The Oshkosh "Review," without cause or provocation is terribly indignant at us for stating that the 23d Chapter of St. Luke &c., referred to in our last as published in the Review was copied from the Crisis. Swineford says 'taint so. Now, then, it is but just to say that after a careful reading of the "Gospel according to saint Luke," we can find nothing therein which will in any manner interfere with—what Republicans of yore boasted of—"Free Speech, Free Press, and Free Men!"

We shall criticise the Review, President Lincoln or his brilliant Secretary of War, STANTON, just as we choose: and if we take occasion to refer to the "American Haynau," Gen'l Ben. F. Butler, lately whipped at Lowell, Massachusetts, by a Mechanic whom he undertook to abuse, we shall, when the facts are duly communicated exercise thereon our own powers of criticism.

Will the Review do as much?

New Post Office Laws.

Among the amended acts of the postal laws the following section is of interest to every one. P. M. Robinson gives us all fair notice that it will be enforced.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That no mail matter shall be delivered by the postmaster until the postage due thereon shall have been paid; and no box at any post office shall be assigned to the use of any person until the rent therefor has been paid for at least one quarter, for which the postmaster shall give a receipt, and keep a record thereof in his office, which record shall be delivered to his successor.

INSTRUCTION No. 3. This section absolutely prohibits the delivery of any letter, newspaper, pamphlet, or package whatever, until the postage charged thereon shall be paid. Postmasters must strictly conform to it. Printed matter must be retained until it is paid for, either as a transient package or for a quarter, as provided in section 18 and 35.

THE EDITORIAL CONVENTION which met at La Crosse last week was a success, so those say who were present.—About 60 editors were in attendance. The next convention is to meet at Madison.

☞ SAM. RYAN, JR. of this City, has been appointed Sutler of the 17th Wis. Infantry Vols.

The well known E. Z. C. Judson ("Ned Buntline") a private in the 1st New York Mounted Rifles, Col. Onderdonk, has been sentenced to two months' imprisonment at Fort Norfolk, Virginia, for the crime of desertion.

HOW DEMOCRATS HATE THE SOLDIERS.—At the Democratic mass convention at Springfield, on Wednesday, $47,500 in cash were raised for the benefit of sick and wounded Illinois soldiers. That's what we call practical work!

☞ READ E S. Turner's advertisement, in another column. He is a reliable business man and cannot fail to give satisfaction

☞ The next term of Lawrence University will commence on the 10th of September Make a note of it.

☞ Rev Mr. Nesbit of Fond du Lac, will preach at the Baptist Church in this place to-morrow morning and afternoon.

☞ There is to be an Independent Ball at Adkins' Hall on the evening of the 4th. Every arrangement has been made to ensure a pleasant party

Jas McCaghery and Adam Mertz managers

☞ Quite a number of visitors from abroad were present commencement week All seemed to enjoy the exercises consequent upon the occasion

☞ We have given up the greater part of our paper this week to the able and impartial criticism of our "special reporter," on the College Exercises Extra copies may be had by calling at our office

☞ We acknowledge a pleasant call from the Fond du Lac Band the other night This Band discourses pleasant music—one of the best bands we have heard at Commencement

KAUKAUNA —Mr Green, by an accident, had his leg badly fractured last week. Dr Ostrander, of this city was called for and we are happy to know that the sufferer is doing well

☞ Our Junior has taken himself off to Michigan's clime to rusticate and recuperate preparatory—to the draft probably We notice that he has turned up at Corunna Twere a foresight that his better half accompanied him to keep him from getting his copperhead bumped by some Rep or other

P S —The Junior has returned, after enjoying a huge time generally He found the "copperheads" of Wolverinedom earnest in their efforts to win that people back to their first love —Democracy The "draft" has no charms for the Junior

☞ See bill of particulars for the Fourth of July at Appleton in another column We are bound to have a rousing old fashioned celebration [illegible] So every one may come prepared to enjoy themselves Vive la [illegible]

☞ Dr Knapp can be consulted at the Menasha House, Menasha Saturday July, 11th, and at the Gilbert House, Appleton, Sunday & Monday, July 12th & 13th, as will be seen by a card in another column Consultation Free

☞ Mr. S P. Ming of this city has been appointed Provost Marshal for this county This looks as if the returned soldiers were at last to be remembered in the distribution of the offices The enrolling officers are now busy Let no one so far forget themselves as to oppose the officers in their duties

☞ What a luxury these warm days to drop in at Allen and Jackson's Drug Store and enjoy a glass of sparkling Soda, that Allen understands so well to compound! He has added another fountain—possibly to accommodate the rush of thirsty Fourth of July celebrators. His cigars will bear puffing too!

☞ LAMPOONED —The Preparatorys and graduating class were both the recipients of burlesque programmes We think the rivalry existing among the different classes in the college is carried too far in these burlesques There is a trifle too much personality and too much slang. Boys you must remember that brilliant wit is preferable to slang.

☞ Old subscribers will do us a favor by letting us know immediately whether they wish their paper continued another year or not We send out a number of the present issue to some who have failed to notify us of their intentions as yet We must know immediately in order to arrange our books New and old subscribers will please notice that our terms are $2 per yr, in advance

☞ J C Smith cut us a splendid loin of Mutton from a three year old, that weighed when dressed 106 lbs! It was raised in Greenville by Mr J Lewis, and it netted him the neat sum of $9,36 It pays to raise sheep

Mr N Richmond also sold Mr Smith a six weeks old calf that weighed dressed 120 pounds. who can beat that?

By the way Smith has a splendid cool place to keep his meats And he always has a good variety

STRANGERS visiting Appleton should not fail to call at Smith's Book, Stationery, Wall Paper and Fancy Goods Establishment—sign of the "Big Book," College Avenue The assortment of goods now on hand is very extensive, and prices low for the times All varieties of Toys, and articles rare and beautiful, suitable for gifts to friends, are to be found there, together with School Books Wall Paper, Stationery, &c &c Call in friends and see for yourselves

☞ Smith, at the Bookstore has his usual large assortment of Fire works for the little folks

☞ GRAIN ELEVATORS IN CHICAGO —Another immense Grain Elevator, said to be the largest in the world, has just been finished in Chicago, and still another, of equal size, is nearly completed They have been built in the most substantial manner, and furnished throughout with the most perfect machinery, including a large number of Fairbanks' 500 Bushel Hopper Scales, which insures correct weight to buyers and sellers of grain The amount of grain which can be handled in these Elevators in a single day is enormous The increased production of grain in the North-west is perhaps shown in no way more clearly than by the rapid increase in Chicago of the facilities for receiving and shipping it

☞ LILLIPUTIAN BRIDAL PARTY —Gen Tom Thumb and wife Com Nutt and Minnie Warren with P T Barnum, Esq, the five notables in a group, and the only Carte de Visite showing their exact relative size, with accurate likenesses Correct and clearly defined outlines in the dress Sold at 15 cts, 2 for 25 cts, 5 for 50 cts, or $1 00 per dozen, sent by mail post free on receipt price, at Mme Demorest's Emporium of Fashions No 473 Broadway Every photographic album should contain this, the most interesting Carte de Visite yet published also a Photograph Carte de Visite of Mme Demorest 15 cts, or both together, 25 cts, or a copy of Mme Demorest's "Mirror of Fashions," with both Carte de Visites, for 10 cts, sent post-free or either Carte de Visite, and the Mirror of Fashions for 30 cts Either Carte de Visite will be sent to yearly subscribers to Mme Demorest's "Mirror of Fashions," as a premium, besides the 50 cts' worth of extra patterns

Senator Doolittle made a speech in Chicago Thursday evening and endorsed Burnside and his order The following is an extract from his speech

Gen Burnside suppressed a newspaper in this city and as we have been informed the president has revoked the order President Lincoln no doubt [illegible] But when the necessity arrives the president will certainly enforce it

The road from Milwaukee to Fond du Lac, we think has become a certainty Now why cannot the latter make terms with Appleton to extend that road to this point via Chilton?—Will you state your propositions? We will meet you half way —Appleton Crescent

If the Crescent will build one half of the road we will build the other half This proposition of course is made upon the supposition that the people of the two cities and along the route will throw no obstacles in the way of our enterprise Will our neighbor guarantee the neutrality of his friends and consider the matter settled —Press

Mrs. Douglas and her Family.

A Washington correspondent of the Springfield Republican alluding to the death of James Madison Coutts, the father of Mrs Douglas says

"Mrs Douglas is again in mourning She was always a favorite with her father and the attachment between them was unusually strong She is now left alone with her children, to battle with life as best she can The children relinquished their Memphis estate, long ago by choosing to remain here and espouse the cause of their country One of the boys is upon Gen Burnside's staff If the government succeeds in restoring the Union or in putting down the rebellion, the children will recover their Southern estate though doubtless in a ruined condition Every few month the gossip-mongers have coined a new story respecting Mrs Douglas They have married her to several men, but most frequently to Mr Chase What makes the matter worse, is that there never was the slightest foundation for it It must have been started purposely, for a mischievous purpose Mrs Douglas has busied herself for the last two years at the hospitals There is not a woman in the country who has been more active in doing good than she, and hundreds of wounded and sick soldiers will remember her name with gratitude.

AMERICAN WOMEN —It is a well-known fact that in America the female sex are more subject to disease [illegible] than in any other country. Why is it so? Is it from want of knowing how? Or is it from the habits and customs of the people? Thousands [illegible] lose their health [illegible] On receipt of two stamps a 50 pg pamphlet called Dr Harvey's Treatise on diseases of females, pregnancy, miscarriage, barrenness, sterility, reproduction and abuses of nature will be mailed secure from observation to any address by J Bryan M D 76 Cedar street New York and all inquiries will be strictly confidential

Blank Work, done as neatly as types and ink can do it and when promised at the CRESCENT OFFICE

☞ No more shall our horned quadruped raid on neighbor's domains No more gates to be demolished She is gone—her crimes have been justly punished and beef is all that remains of the depredator!

"UNQUESTIONABLY THE BEST SUSTAINED WORK OF THE KIND IN THE WORLD."

Harper's NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE.

CRITICAL NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

The volumes bound constitute of themselves a library of miscellaneous reading such as cannot be found in the same compass in any other publication that has come under our notice.—Boston Courier.

The most popular Monthly in the world.—New York Observer.

We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellencies of Harper's Magazine—a journal with a monthly circulation of about 170,000 copies—in whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of this work as an evidence of the American People; and the popularity it has acquired is merited. Each number contains fully 144 pages of reading matter, appropriately illustrated with good wood-cuts; and it combines in itself the racy monthly and more philosophical quarterly, blended with the best features of the daily journal. It has great power in the dissemination of a love of pure literature.—Trubner's Guide to American Literature, London.

No Magazine in Europe or America is so well known; none has half as many readers, and, we may safely say, none has received so large a tribute of admiration from the cultivated classes, that delight in a healthy, diversified, elevating periodical literature. It is the foremost Magazine of the day. The fireside never had a more delightful companion, nor the million a more enterprising friend, than Harper's Magazine.—Methodist Protestant, Baltimore.

THE WORLD.

AN INDEPENDENT

Daily and Weekly Newspaper.

FOR NATIONAL CIRCULATION AND FAMILY READING.

THE WORLD will oppose all compromises which would barter away the principles for which this war is waged; it will oppose peace itself till the success of the war assures the permanence of peace; and will urge the prosecution of the war, with economy but with relentless vigor, till federal property is recovered, and federal authority is reestablished, from the Chesapeake to the Rio Grande.

Our correspondents are attached to the various divisions of the army, will accompany them wherever they go, and, by a free use of the telegraph, and the mails, present in the columns of the World, a complete History of the War, from day to day and month to month.

The Daily Edition:

An Imperial Quarto sheet, larger than any of the other New York two cent Dailies; containing the Telegraphic and other News up to the moment of going to press, with all Reports of the Markets, and a copious summary of the latest Commercial and Political Intelligence. Price two cents. Terms per annum, $6; four copies to one address, $20. To clergymen, $7 per year.

The Daily World is the most complete Commercial and News paper published in America. United with the Courier and Enquirer, and preserving all the commercial news and other distinctive features of that journal, it has become the principal advertising medium of the New York Auctioneers, Shipping Merchants and business men generally. Its commercial and market reports, together with its reports of all importations, foreign and domestic, and of exports, and of foreign and domestic ship news, are full, reliable, and give what no business man can do without. Beside these peculiar features, it is unsurpassed in the fullness of its political and miscellaneous news, its correspondence.

The Semi-Weekly:

Three Dollars a year; two copies to one address $5; to clergymen $2.50; single copies three cents. Published Tuesdays and Fridays.

The Weekly World:

This, as well as the Semi-Weekly, will contain all the daily matter of most interest to the country at large. Special attention is paid to the Agricultural, Horticultural, Literary and Scientific Departments. The Provision, Cattle, and other Market Reports are prepared with the greatest care. Price $2 a year; three copies to one address $5; twenty copies $25. Clergymen can receive the Weekly, single copy, at $1.50. Single copy five cents. Published on Thursdays.

Remittances for the World may be made by drafts or bank bills at specie paying banks, and when the amount is large the Postmaster should certify to it [illegible] at the time of making the letter, it may be made at our risk.

Harper's Pictorial History

OF

The Great Rebellion

IN THE UNITED STATES.

Messrs. Harper & Brothers have commenced the issue in Numbers of a complete History of the Great Rebellion in the United States. The work has been for many months in course of preparation, by a writer every way qualified for the task.

The Introduction contains a clear and succinct account of the formation of the Confederacy; the formation and adoption of the Constitution of the United States, and the establishment of the National Government; the origin, development, and progress, of the doctrines of Nullification and Secession, and the various phases which they assumed until their final culmination in Rebellion.

The History comprises a full account drawn from the most authentic sources, of all events of the War; the intrigues of the Southern leaders at home and abroad; the gradual defection of one section; the great uprising of the people for the maintenance of the Army and Navy; and the Battles by Land and Sea.

The Illustrations comprise portraits of all those who have borne a prominent part in the struggle; Maps of different localities; Plans of the leading actions; Views of every scene of interest, and of the most important battles. These illustrations are mostly from drawings taken on the spot by artists deputed for that purpose to accompany every division of our army and navy.

Every facility at the command of the Publishers has been employed in the preparation and execution of this work; and they confidently believe that it will form the most trustworthy and valuable history which can be prepared of the Great Struggle for the American Union.

MODE AND TERMS OF PUBLICATION.—The work will be issued in Numbers, each consisting of 24 pages of the size of "Harper's Weekly," printed from clear type upon fine paper, and will probably be completed in about Twenty Numbers.

The numbers will be issued at intervals, if possible, of about three or four weeks.

The price of each Number, which contains matter equivalent to an ordinary volume, will be Twenty-Five Cents.

The Illustrations in each number are alone worth the price asked. Men out of employment, especially SICK OR DISABLED SOLDIERS, can find no other work so sure of ready sale and good profits. For further particulars apply to the Publishers.

LOOK TO QUALITY

"As a paramount consideration, reverse the rule making a low rate of premium the chief essential; for the cheapest rate is too frequently only an index of the poorest insurance.

As our rates are graduated by the law of compensation, after ample experience, the propriety of Insurance extends with equal force to the safer classes of property; it does to those of a more hazardous nature. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

Are you sick, feeble and complaining? Are you out of order, with your system deranged, and your feelings uncomfortable? These symptoms are often the prelude to serious illness. Some fit of sickness is creeping upon you, and should be averted by a timely use of the right remedy. Take Ayer's Pills, and cleanse out the disordered humors—purify the blood, and let the fluids move on unobstructed in health again. They stimulate the functions of the body into vigorous activity, purify the system from the obstructions which make disease. A cold settles somewhere in the body, and obstructs its natural functions. These, if not relieved, react upon themselves and the surrounding organs, producing general aggravation, suffering, and disease. While in this condition, oppressed by the derangements, take Ayer's Pills, and see how directly they restore the natural action of the system, and with it the buoyant feeling of health again. What is true and so apparent in this trivial and common complaint, is also true in many of the deep-seated and dangerous distempers. The same purgative effect expels them. Caused by similar obstructions and derangements of the natural functions of the body, they are rapidly, and many of them surely, cured by the same means. None who know the virtues of these Pills, will neglect to employ them when suffering from the disorders they cure.

Statements from leading physicians in some of the principal cities, and from other well known public persons.

From a Forwarding Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1856.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her.

ASA MORGRIDGE.

As a Family Physic.

From Dr. E. W. Cartwright, New Orleans.

Your Pills are the prince of purges. Their excellent qualities surpass any cathartic we possess. They are mild, but very certain and effectual in their action on the bowels, which makes them invaluable to us in the daily treatment of disease.

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach

From Dr. Edward Boyd, Baltimore.

DEAR BRO. AYER: I cannot answer you what complaints I have cured with your Pills better than to say all that we ever treat with a purgative medicine. I place great dependence on an effectual cathartic in my daily contest with disease, and believing as I do that your Pills afford us the best we have, I of course value them highly.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 1, 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER. Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once.

Yours with great respect, ED. W. PREBLE,
Clerk of Steamer Clarion.

Bilious Disorders—Liver Complaints.

From Dr. Theodore Bell, of New York City.

Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as an aperient, but I find their beneficial effects upon the Liver very marked indeed. They have in my practice proved more effectual for the cure of bilious complaints than any one remedy I can mention. I sincerely rejoice that we have at length a purgative which is worthy the confidence of the profession and the people.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., 7th Feb., 1856.

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them. Fraternally yours, ALONZO BALL, M. D.,
Physician of the Marine Hospital.

A Word of Solemn Conscientious Advice to those who will reflect!

A class of maladies prevail to a fearful extent in the community, dooming at least 100,000 youth of both sexes annually, to an early grave. Those diseases are very imperfectly understood. Their external manifestation, or symptoms are nervous debility, relaxation and exhaustion; marasmus or wasting and consumption of the tissues of the whole body; shortness of breathing or hurried breathing on ascending a hill or flight of stairs; great palpitation of the heart; asthma, bronchitis and sore throat; great palpitation of the heart; asthma, bronchitis and sore throat; shaking of the hands and limbs; aversion to society and to business or study; dimness of eye sight, loss of memory, dizziness of the head, neuralgia, pain in various parts of the body; lumbago, dyspepsia or indigestion, &c.

Now in ninety nine cases out of every one hundred, all the above named disorders, and a host of others not named, as consumption of the lungs and that most insidious and wily form of consumption of the spinal nerves, known as Tabes Dorsales, and tabes mesenterica, have their seat and origin in diseases of the pelvic viscera.

Dr. Andrew Stone, Physician to the Troy Lung and Hygienic Institution, is now engaged in treating this class of modern maladies with the most astonishing success. The facilities of cure are sure that patients can be cured at home, in any part of the country, from accurate descriptions of their case, by letter; and have the medicines sent by Mail or express. Printed interrogatories will be forwarded on application.

☞ Consumption, catarrh and diseases of the throat cured as well at the home of the patients as at the Institution, by sending the cold medicated INHALING BALSAMIC VAPORS, with inhaler and ample directions for their use, and direct correspondence.

☞ Patients applying for interrogatives or advice, must enclose return stamps, to meet attention.

☞ The attending physician will be found at the Institution for consultation, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., each day. Sunday in the forenoon. Address
